PROUD OCCASION

FOR JEFFERSON SCHOOL WAS FIRST "PARENTS' DAY."

Excellent Refreshments and Hospitality Follow Instructive Addresses to Visitors.

The first regular "Parents' Day" at the Jefferson building Wednesday was a decided success. There were about 85 parents present and the afternoon was pleasantly and profitably spent. The Hon. Hal Corbett was introduced by Prof. J. T. Ross. He is for better schools and better salaries, believes that the teachers should be independent and dignified, and that no place, socially or otherwise, is too exalted for the guardians of America's future citizens, statesmen and parents.

Following Mr. Corbett Prof. J. A. Carnegie heartily endorsed all he said, and addressed the parents for several minutes in regard to the discipline of children and the proper attitude of parent and teacher toward each other.

Other speeches were a short and pleasant address by former Superintendent McBroome and short talks by Mrs. Hillis and Mrs. Corbett, who are strongly advocating manual training and domestic science in the public schools.

Miss Bond, first grade teacher of Jefferson school, also gave a short talk on the manual training already in the primary grades. Miss Bond is one of the most efficient primary teachers.

The rooms were all beautifully decorated with palms, ferns, cut flowers and autumn leaves, and everything spoke volumes for the untiring zeal of the Jefferson corps of teachers.

After the children were dismissed for the day the parents were served with delicious fruit punch and Nabisco wafers by the teachers, assisted by several of the pupils.

WILLIAM JENNINGS, HE ROASTS THE NEWSPAPERS.

New York, Oct. 24.—William Jennings Bryan spoke at Cooper's union under the auspices of the Progressive Democratic league. His subject was "The Democracy of Today." He introduced as a subtitle, "The Average Man."

He returned, he said, from abroad with the impression that our "average man" was the average man of the world, and the American common people the greatest people of America. Among the common people he classed the farmers, who, he said, had enough to keep them out of the poor house and not enough money to tempt broken down noblemen to come over and disgrace their families by marrying into their families, mechanics, physicians, lawyers and other professions.

Roast for Newspapers.
Turning to the subject of newspaper men and newspapers, he said, in part:

"It is a calamity that so many of our great metropolitan papers are owned by somebody whom we do not know. Many of them are not exploited as newspaper enterprises, but as an adjunct to exploit other enterprises. One of the calamities of the day is that some, not all, of the owners of our great metropolitan dailies employ brilliant editors to chloroform their readers while they pick the pockets of their readers. It has come to be recognized that many of the great dailies, not all, are for sale to the highest bidder."

"So universal is the recognition of this fact that it helps a man to have their opposition when their support would damn him among honest people."

"But many of the owners of papers belong to the class of common people. This is true of some of the larger papers, especially true of the smaller papers, the weeklies throughout the country, and the workers on the papers."

Miss Dollie Young Dead.

Dinner Bell Wedding Card.
Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 24.—When Widow Schultz was married to Henry Grapenstein, a widow, she didn't send out announcements and at home cards. With her new husband she stepped out on their back porch with a large dinner bell. The ringing brought out late sleepers in a hurry, and when they had all assembled on their respective back porches Mrs. Schultz-Grapenstein solemnly announced that the knot had been tied. There were more vigorous clangs of the bell, and then all was again peace.

Madame Dupont—"Have you been to the theater this week?" Mme. Durand—"Yes." Mme. Dupont—"Did you see anything good?" Mme. Durand—"Yes, three perfect loves of new hats."—Rire.

Like Girard College.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 24.—It was announced today that the will of Robert N. Carson, the millionaire who died suddenly in a theater last week, provides for a $5,000,000 institution for orphan girls patterned after Girard college, which is exclusively for boys.

The bequest becomes effective after the death of the widow, Mrs. Frances Carson. The institution will be located at Flourtown, just over the city line in Montgomery county.

The will is almost identical with that of Stephen Girard's, and, like the latter, provides that the proposed school shall not be controlled by any religious denomination and that no religious services that are peculiar or exclusive to any church shall be held in the institution.

A Little Vague.

"It is far from here to the next town," asked a tourist of a man he met on a rural road.

"Well, it ain't so very far, nor it ain't so very high 'an' yit it ain't as high as might be if it wa'n't so far as it is. Still, it'd be further if it wa'n't so high, so I reckon one might say that it is betwixt 'an' between fer 'an' high."—October Lippincott's.
